DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).
3. Claims 23, 2-3, 24, 18-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schmaelzle et al. in view of Weissrich et al. and either Kreiner et al. or Ohtsu et al..

Schmaelzle et al. has first through third roof sections D1, D2, D3, and control unit 19, 20, 27, etc. operable to move same, but lacks the movable operating element, i.e. the switch. Weissrich et al. teach that moveable roof sections 3,4, 5, all analogous to the sections of Schmaelzle et al., can be moved by a control unit 16, 17 listed in US Patent 5,558, 388 and referenced in column 3 of the Weissrich et al. patent. Weissrich et al. also has a switch 21 with more than six positions for moving the roof sections as a function of position of the switch.

Both Kreiner et al. and Ohtsu et al. teach the newly claimed controlling movement of the roof section via different sequential movements for different starting roof conditions, the former by using an overflap condition to bring the roof section to closed condition from a lowered position and the latter by skipping the dummy full close, tilt up and flap position in closing from the full open position as schematically illustrated in figure 8.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill to provide in Schmaelzle et al. control unit and switch as taught by Weissrich et al. in order to selectively control the position of the roof sections and different sequential movements as taught by either Kreiner et al. or Ohtsu et al. in order to effectively close the roof.

As to claim 18, the switch is rotary.

As to claim 3, a movable panel coupled to a sun sensor is common knowledge in the art, obvious to use here when the roof sections are transparent to control ambient light in the vehicle interior.

As applicant has not challenged this statement of judicial notice, it is made final.

4. Claims 4, 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schmaelzle et al. in view of Weissrich et al. and either Kreiner et al. or Ohtsu et al. as applied to claims 3, 19 above, and further in view of Odoi et al.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill to provide in the references above a sun blind moveable behind a front edge of the roof opening as taught by Odoi et al. in order to prevent wind damage to the sun blind when the roof section is opened.

Art Unit: 3612

5. Claims 5-8, 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schmaelzle et al. in view of Weissrich et al. and either Kreiner et al. or Ohtsu et al., optionally Odoi et al., as applied to claims 23,2-4, 24 above, and further in view of Henderson III et al..

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill to control the wind deflector D1 of Schmaelzle et al. as modified by Weissrich et al. as a function of vehicle speed as taught by Henderson III et al. in order to prevent wind induced noise within the vehicle.

6. Claims 9-16, 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schmaelzle et al. in view of Weissrich et al. and either Kreiner et al. or Ohtsu et al., optionally Odoi et al. and Henderson III et al., as applied to claims 23, 2-8, 24 above, and further in view of Flaherty et al..

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill to provide in the references listed above sliding roof sections that can be closed as a function of speed as taught by Flaherty et al. in order to reduce interior wind noise.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims of record have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

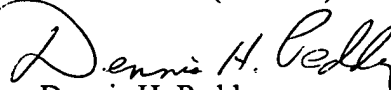

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
